Seen & Heard Around MURRAY

One of the finest orchestras in this area is held in the band. The band is composed of Reed, the three Perseus boys, John, Joe and Bob, and another young fellow they just added who plays the sax. The addition of the sax to the band was a good move.

This group is versatile and you can actually talk while they play, and carry on a conversation. Most of these bands apparently think that noise is a "prime requisite with the music coming in second, but Reed's orchestra is different.

February has 29 days this year. Instead of 28. Yeah, this is Leap Year. 366 days. What will you do with this extra day?

Being an interesting conversationalist can make any woman attractive.

Several young ladies this year for a change. One wearing a bikini.

Squirrels are out again. They were ramping over the snow as though it were Spring. They found the cars of corn, yes, put out.

Two Mc Crows were pulled in a tree up by Mrs. Patten's hog field. A Crow is a big bird.

Fellow says that living on a budget is the same as living beyond your means, except that you have a record of it.

Real estate man: "Now here's a house without a single flaw in it." Southern Belle: "Really? What do you want to do?"

Mr. Louie Nunn had a last fight on the ice today. The staff called to check on him and it was reported that he felt pretty hard but apparently no damage was done. Good luck to Mr. Nunn.

Overdue Books May Be Returned To Library Without Fine

Overdue books may be returned to the Murray-Calloway County Library January 3, 4, 5 and 6, free of overdue fines, according to the personnel of the local library.

Due to the holidays and bad weather, the staff felt that patrons should be given the opportunity to return books and not pay the three cents per day fine imposed on overdue books.

The library staff urges all patrons to use these days to return books to start the new year.

Two Injured In Accident Last Night

Two persons were injured in a two-car accident that occurred last night at 7:48 at the intersection of North 12th and Olive Streets, according to the report filed by Patrolman H. E. Wilson, Alvin Farris, and J. P. Wilber, spoon of the Murray Police Department.

Gloomy Picture Painted By Governor Nunn To State General Assembly

Gov. Louie B. Nunn

Debts, Interest Payments May Force An Increase In Taxes

Governor Louie B. Nunn painted a gloomy picture of the status of Kentucky in his address last night to the Kentucky General Assembly.

He told the legislators that they have a "joint responsibility" in finding the solutions to the problems which face the commonwealth.

"I wish I could say, as many governors before me have said, that the present is secure, the future bright, the economy vigorous, our financial structure sound, and that we have no worry," Nunn said.

"I cannot do this. It would not be true. To do so would deceive you... and the citizens of Kentucky, whose affairs are in our trust."

Governor Nunn intimated strongly that additional tax revenue will be needed by Kentucky in the coming years of his administration.

The 1968 General Assembly...

recognized the need for the funds that were appropriated. Those needs still exist. Much of the so-called budget cut is only a postponement of expenditures which must eventually be funded," the governor said.

"Many departments are only delaying expenditures on such things as building maintenance, equipment purchases and facility replacement," he said. "These required, essential and needed items will have to be met next year."

Turning to what he called "unpleasant, bitter facts," Nunn reported that:

—On Dec. 12, Kentucky's outstanding bonded debt totaled more than $1.08 billion.

—Annual interest and principal payments on this debt total $55 million. Interest cost of the debt to taxpayers over the life of the bonds will total $707 million.

—The state owes the teacher retirement fund $12 million.

—In the Highway Department, 56 per cent of the state road fund is committed to debt service — interest and principal on outstanding bonds.

"It is impossible to maintain and operate, much less to expand, an adequate road system on as few as 44 per cent of the state road fund which is left after payment of debts," Nunn continued.

"And to make matters worse, I am advised that beginning the second year of the biennium, when the full impact of our borrowing will be felt, the situation will worsen."

"In addition to this," Nunn went on, "the completion of the interstate and Appalachian highway systems will require $25 million more than remains in the 1968."

CHIRP Good News To The Hospital

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (AP) — What your community doesn't know about CHIRP can shatter change patients in area mental hospitals.

CHIRP isn't just a mental illness what the Salk vaccine was to polio. It doesn't deal in miracles or even promise improvement. But involvement in CHIRP programs, experience has shown, has helped some mentally ill patients.

According to a report in "Psychiatric News," publication of the American Psychiatric Association, CHIRP stands for Community Industrial Rehabilitation program.

It originated as a program of the Brookline, Mass., Veterans Administration VA Hospital.

During six years of operation, it has been the bridge to employment for 1,200 psychiatric patients. Patients earned more than $500,000.

European Model

Dr. William Wink, head of the Brookline hospital, modeled CHIRP after paid work programs in England and Holland. There were prompted by postwar manpower shortages.

Bar S. Frost, the project's administrator, says the Brookline plant was the first in the nation to follow the European model.

Now, about 50 hospitals in the United States have established CHIRP-type programs.

At least 50 dozen more could benefit from such plans, authorities say.

The project in Massachusetts began in 1961 when a toy manufacturer hired eight patients for part-time work at the federal minimum wage, then $1 an hour. During the early years, all work was done at the hospital.

Two years ago, however, 16 patients left the "security" of the hospital. With transportation provided, they traveled to a nearby factory to work.

Nine of these still are working — some as permanent workers and others as part of a program now called Factory-Chirp.

Such patients are paid the same rate as other employees doing similar jobs. Six other factories in the Brookline area also have used the procedure from time to time.

Dr. Wink's goal of including 10 per cent of the patients in CHIRP was reached several years after the program started.

Twenty-five per cent now participate, and he hopes that more than half the patients will be working at prevailing community wages soon.

Excellent Record

Other highlights of the first CHIRP program in the United States:

—No CHIRP worker has ever lost an hour due to injury, and no employer has ever called the hospital with an urgent problem about a patient.

—Since the establishment of CHIRP at the hospital, the discharge rate was continuously improved.

—Some patients trained in the educational therapy program of

Status Means No Good For Conservation

By GAY FAULEY

UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — So you long for a leopard coat, an alligator handbag, both status symbols in the fashion world.

Satisfy that yearning and you contribute to what conservationists fear will be the extinction of some of nature's rare beauties.

Look for status elsewhere and you help to guarantee a future for many creatures whose numbers steadily are dwindling.

One woman whose lifetime advocacy has been the animal kingdom calls on women everywhere to join in conserving nature's disappearing heritage.

The method, as Emily Hahn outlines it, is simple. Just stop buying furs made from such as the leopard, jaguar or cheetah which are being killed off at an alarming rate.

Boys accessories from the alligator whose hide is so valued that conservationists fear its extinction.

"I would like to take any woman longing for a leopard coat on a leopard hunt," said Miss Hahn, the well-known author.

"You don't kill one leopard for one coat. You kill off many in the search for the unmarried skins."

"I just don't think women really are aware of what they're doing when they consider things like leopard and alligator as status in their wardrobes. There are other less bloody symbols."

Rose Royce, emerald and diamond, husband with titles.

"If you insist on status in fur, why not mink. Miss Hahn continued. "The mink's future is safe we breed them by the millions domestically."

"But I don't think I'll ever again own any fur," she added. "The only one I have now is a Hudson seal, about 10 years old."

Miss Hahn discussed the saving of rare wild animals in an interview on publication of her book, "Animal Gardens."

Doubtless, a fascinating study of public and private zoos around the world.

Miss Hahn has been an animalophile since her childhood in St.

Louis where she remembers "I asked."

was taken by stroller to the zoo in Forest Park. Zoos are on her list of "first to see" in any city she visits.

But she grew up to study mining engineering, mineralogy and anthropology and to write more than 30 books. Perhaps her best known work is "China To Me," a personal account of pre-World War II days in the land now behind the Bamboo Curtain.

It was in the Orient that she met her husband, Maj. Charles Boxer, and the couple now live in London. They have two daughters and two small grandchildren.

Really now, why all the fuss about preserving a rare breed, I

"Well, then why preserve anything," she answered. "Why did we keep the Declaration of Independence?"

"Perhaps," she added, "it's the oldest in me, but I would say to any woman, 'Which is more beautiful? The animal or the coat?'"

FINS 'N FEATHERS FRIENDS

THERE AIN'T NO SUCH ANIMAL, someone said on his first look at a giraffe. And if he could see this scene in Kenya's Nairobi National Park, he'd certainly stick to it.

On December 27th Louis Greenfield and Kenneth Thummond brought in four pintail ducks. They were hunting in the Blood River area. Their weapons . . . 12 gauge Remington shotguns. Both Louis and Kenneth are state engineers and have done quite a bit of hunting during the holidays . . . with good results. We just couldn't get the information.

These fellows report a large number of ducks sighted, also 3 or 4 flocks of geese. The geese being too high to attempt with the equipment at hand. We are especially interested in the quantity of game sighted as there have been many reports of diminishing game.

These hunters admit they might have been over anxious and a bit excited. Can you blame them? There is so little time for fun you hurry even while hunting.

Slow down fellow . . . take a deep breath and gently touch the trigger. OK?

Barrett's Shell Station is a good source of information which we haven't made intelligent use of. That is one error we plan to correct immediately. Too far to walk in a working day. Must get a wheelbarrow!

Joe Jackson and his squirrel dog "Ole Faithful King" are two of the best hunters in these parts. They bring home the limit almost every time they go hunting.

December 31st brought a close to more hunting seasons . . . sad, but true. Squirrel and Archery Deer hunting seasons are now closed. All is not lost, however, as Quail, Rabbit, 'Coon (taking season), Duck and Goose seasons are still open. Closing dates for these seasons are: Quail, Rabbit and 'Coon, January 31st; Ducks, January 7th; Geese, January 14. Duck season closes next Sunday so you Duck hunters get busy and bring us some reports on your hunting.

ATTENTION! Found: A Black and Tan Hound. A gyp without a collar has appeared at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Beasley, on the Pottertown Road. The hound has no particular identifying marks. She is very thin and appears to have whelped recently. The tan markings are mottled. For more information on this Black and Tan Lady you may call 753-7664 (the Beasleys), or us at 753-2450 at any hour . . . We are not clock watchers.

The Beasley family had been out of town for the holidays and upon their return they found this half-starved, freezing hound at their door. Being the genuinely nice people that they are they put the hound in a heated room and proceeded to feed and care for her.

The fine people go far toward renewing our faith in human nature. At this moment we are compelled to admit "the good folks outweigh the bad". Thank you Kay for being the kind, generous soul you are. To any skeptic who might say this is a big deal? Just let us say when you already have a kennel full of ox size hunting dogs, plus a number of pedigree cats, one more hungry hound does make a difference. If everyone was as kind-hearted and humane as this couple we wouldn't have reason to appreciate these people so completely. Mr. Beasley, we haven't mentioned your great breed of hunting dogs for the simple reason we never met a WEIMARANER. We can't even pronounce it . . . even in syllables. Give us the facts on this great breed of German origin, and we'll present him to our "Friends". See how neatly we sidestepped our guilt.

Will Ed Stokes, Barry Stokes, and Hassel Kuykendall went Quail hunting one afternoon last week. This hunt resulted in 10 Quail taken. The hunters were tired and late getting home therefore we couldn't track them down for a picture or details of the other hunts we missed. Boys, we're holding you to that promise of a picture of the pointers. We'll allow the owners to get in the spotlight with the hunting dogs . . . just to show how impartial we are. Hold your fire! That's a joke son. Barry is the 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Ed Stokes. We hope to hear more from this young hunter.

Bill Swift, Carlos Black, Jr., and Owen Norsworthy spent Thursday, December 28th, pursuing their favorite game. They bagged 3 Geese and 4 Ducks. We would like a picture of these hunters, but no such luck.

Friday, December 29th, Owen Norsworthy, Carlos Black, Jr., and Marshall Gordon killed 5 Ducks. These men have been on a number of hunting trips this season, and have lost count of the game they have brought home. Naturally we missed out on the pictures and the news.

HELP! We have lost a hound! A male Walker, owned by Bill Etherton, has strayed from home. Please watch for him and call Bill at Martin Oil Co. (753-9119). The Walker is black and white with a brown head. He was wearing a collar bearing the name Dennis Brandon, and was last seen Sunday, December 31st. The hound is about a year old. If you have any information on this lost hound, please call Bill or us. We will be moaning a lot louder than his owner until we know he is safe.

Holy Catfish!! We promised Mr. Robert Etherton we would keep an eye on the Martin Oil crew and keep him posted. Robert and bjdje, Gladys, are wintering in Florida and the master is depending on the Fins 'N Feathers to help him keep track of the "goings on" at Martin Oil. We'll try, but we don't get around like we used to.

PUPULATION EXPLOSION—Rebel, busy mother of those 13 pups, looks pined at the Russell Schetgen home in Dubuque, Iowa, scene of this pupulation explosion. There are seven males, six females, and accommodations being what they are, they have to dine in shifts. Average litter for the Irish setter breed is eight.

Consumer Seeks Pie In
Sky-No-Cal

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK — Consumers have pie-in-the-sky ideas about low-calorie eating, a study shows. Wouldn't you know? They want spaghetti and pizza that looks and tastes genuine — but without the calories. They also hunger for low or no-calorie pie crust, fruit and pumpkin pie fillings, rolls and even cake-free liquor.

Men and women in a suburban Chicago community served as guinea pigs for the researchers, commanded by a chemical company, Abbott Laboratories.

Many of the women preferred a greater variety of low-calorie snack foods. As one woman exclaimed, "If someone could come out with low-calorie chocolate, banana! I'd eat it all day long."

Presumably she then would spend all night long with a bottle of—somebody's medicine or a hot water bottle or an ice bag—maybe all three.

Some of the women apparently get the feeling they're standing on a soap suds bar as they nibble on low-calorie foods. They wonder when they go into the low-calorie food section of a store.

They're on a diet and they don't want everyone to know about it. To keep it a secret they would prefer having the low-calorie foods mixed in with regular stocks.

Other highlights of the survey: Most popular of all low-calorie foods now available are carbonated beverages, canned fruit, powdered soft drinks, liquid sweeteners, salad dressings and whipped toppings.

When it comes to their children, mothers seem to be divided on the subject of low-calorie foods and beverages. Some said they didn't buy low-calorie foods because of the price penalty. "They eat whole carrots or things and I can't afford that extra low-calorie cost," one mother said.

In addition to a wide range of products, mothers said they would like smaller-sized packages of the diet foods now on the market, so they could buy for one member of the family without wasting food. As one woman put it:

"It would be less painful if they would only put low-calorie foods into smaller portions. . . . If they were in smaller packages that cost less, you wouldn't feel so guilty about picking up a 25-cent item."

When deciding whether to buy, mothers said they would consider the health benefits of the diet foods, but they might be a little more realistic.

Fashionettes

by United Press International
Rain-droves for spring come brieves, predictably, with fashion. Made from water repellent fabrics, most of them come in long sleeve shirt waists, belted or semi-fitted. Bright floral patterns are predominant. Some have coordinated umbrellas.

All the women who wear what now are offered double knit uniforms designed for Brooks, Uniform Co. of Dallas. The ribbed design, giving all directions stretch, is important for a woman active on her job. The new style is the mid-off look with a wide "storm" stripe and a girly skirt.

Stitch embroidery versatility is making a strong impact on holiday and evening wear. Flowers wield their power in a mystic of design — mostly abstract in lace as well as in other embroidery techniques. Geometric, scrolls and even a metallic paid embroidery add to the variety.

The news in hair fashion is that girl's hair is not being cut again. Going, going and almost gone are the short and long straight styles. The trend is towards the short, heavily curly look, say hair watchers from the Los Angeles company.

Parents' Approval
Always Wise Move

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: First of all I want you to know that I'm 14, but am very mature for my age. Most people think I am 18. Anyway, one evening before Thanksgiving, our high school had a basketball game. Most of the kids always go for a coke and stay around town for a while after the game. I had never done this but that night I felt like it, so I told my 10-year-old brother to tell my folks that I would be staying around town after school. (I couldn't find my parents to tell them myself.)

Well, I came home at 11:45 p.m. and the way my folks carried on you would have thought I had committed some kind of crime or something. You should see the look of punishment they gave me. No games or parties until 1968. Not even for Christmas. And I can't ask to my best friend on the phone until 1968. I am not a run-around, do not date, and do not have a bad record. I can't figure out what I did that was so wrong.

DEAR ABBY: Our son, who is 12 years old, must wear a patch over one eye in order to make his "any" eye work harder, and this upsets him. When, Abby, would you believe that this kid goes by without the patch and is approached by perfect strangers who ask with a horrified gasp, "What happened to your eye, little boy?"

I realize that most people don't mean any harm. They are just curious, but all the same the child is developing a complex over this. Please, please tell people that it hurts enough to see one's child with an impediment without having others add insult to injury.

AN AVID FAN
DEAR ABBY: Thank you for writing. You said it very well. Serious strangers would do well to remember that all obvious scars, blemishes, deformities and disabilities of others should be ignored. And to ask questions pertaining to them is not only unkind, but in the worst possible taste.

Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply, include a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Have to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69790, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

A new corner shower unit is a space saver as well as an attractive unit for any bathroom. Quality Of School Means Good Staff

By DAVID NYDECK
UPI Education Specialist

The quality of any school system depends in major part upon the quality of its staff. New methods, better text books, improved courses of study, and adequate equipment are only valuable when they are put into proper use.

Teachers are the key individuals in the improvement of a school program. They are the professionals who work directly with the students. One of the major responsibilities of other staff members including principals, supervisors, and department heads is to help make the teachers' job more efficient and effective.

The ability of teachers to use better teaching methods is most important if a school wants to improve the educational offering. An individual teacher should be expert in several areas.

She should know various approaches for teaching her subjects for which she is responsible. She should be able to adopt those methods to solve the learning problems of each student. In addition, she needs a good background of knowledge in her subjects. A knowledge of new trends and research is also important.

Does a teacher have these abilities when she graduates from college? Actually, the answer varies with individuals. Some get more than others from their college programs. Obviously, they all lack years of experience.

They normally have as part of their college programs an experience in supervised student teaching. During this part of their program they work with an experienced teacher in a regular classroom. This provides an opportunity to use what has been learned in college courses.

When a school system hires an inexperienced or even an experienced teacher, it has the responsibility to provide an orientation program. This includes training in the system's curriculum for all new staff members. It includes special help for inexperienced people. They need assistance in organizing their classrooms, working with small and large groups of students, as well as the use of different books and equipment which are available.

All teachers need continuous training in techniques of teaching. They need to be aware of new knowledge in science, math and other areas. Actually, a teacher's own education should not end. It is this continuous training which improves the teacher and the school program.

Don Meredith Ponders On Grid Career

HUNTER, N.Y. (AP) — Don Meredith, admitted emotionally spent after failing to lead Dallas to the National Football League title for the second straight year, says he will make up his mind in about two months whether to continue playing.

Meredith, the dandy quarterback of the Cowboys, denied Tuesday night a newspaper story quoting him as saying he plans to retire in order to join a brokerage firm in Dallas and do some sports broadcasting.

While not ruling out the possibility of retirement, Meredith said he was "in a quandary" and that any definite decision on his playing status is at least two months away.

Meredith, contacted at his New York resort where he was filming commercials for a sweater manufacturing firm, said the story of his retirement was premature.

"Before I make a final decision I would certainly first speak to Coach Tom Landry and Mrs. Tex Schramm the Cowboys' general manager," Meredith said.

The story of Meredith's retirement broke in the Dallas Times-Herald Tuesday. He supposedly told of his plans on the flight back to Dallas from Green Bay Sunday night following the Cowboys' heartbreaking 21-17 loss to the Packers in the NFL championship game.

"Naturally, I was disappointed at the outcome of the game," Meredith said, "but what I told the reporter on the plane was taken out of context."

Meredith, 28, has played eight years with the Cowboys and the past season completed a three-year contract calling for a reported annual salary of $40,000. He played his college at Southern Methodist University.

bond authority.

"Prior commitments to which we are obligated would exhaust the existing available funds by the end of 1969," said Nunn, said, "unliquidated balances" on personal service contracts as of Dec. 12 were approximately $13 million.

The governor also outlined some of the problems that confront Kentucky's government today. Outgoing Governor Edward Breathitt had to reduce state spending by $24 million dollars when it was discovered that revenue failed to come in as anticipated.

Governor Nunn asked for an immediate meeting with party leaders to confer on the crisis which the state is meeting and to set in motion a sound financial plan under which the state can operate.

Second Heart Transplant Is Success; Patient Recovering

By NEIL J. SMITH

CAPE TOWN, South Africa — Philip Blaiberg, in "good condition" with the strong heart of a young man beating in his breast, today spoke his first words since the transplant operation. "I am thirty. Please give my regards to my wife."

A Groote Schuur Hospital medical bulletin said Blaiberg was "fully conscious and in good condition" following the five-hour operation performed Tuesday by Dr. Christian Barnard's 30-member surgical team.

The bulletin reported Blaiberg's first words and said the devoted wife, Eileen, had spent the night in a special furnished room near her husband's in the newly built outpatients wing of the hospital.

Stroke Victim's Heart — Barnard's team transplanted the strong heart of Olive Haupt, 24, a colored man, into the chest of Blaiberg, who is white. Haupt had died of a stroke earlier Tuesday. Blaiberg had been driven into retirement by a serious heart condition.

A doctor reported today Blaiberg was kept under sedation all night because doctors said Louis Washkansky may not have received enough rest after the world's first human heart transplant Dec. 3. Washkansky died Dec. 21 of pneumonia.

"I was more pleased with this operation than I was with the last one," said a weary Dr. Barnard Tuesday. A doctor friend of Barnard today said the surgeon was "very optimistic" that Blaiberg would recover. If he does, the doctor said, it would be a far greater medical triumph than Washkansky's survival would have been.

"Blaiberg was so weak a few hours before the operation that he couldn't even hold his eyes open to read," Barnard's doctor friend said. "He was fit after the operation."

Premier John Vorster wired Barnard: "I am very glad the heart operation was successful."

Muriel Haupt, Olive's mother, returned to her 14-hour workday for the usual 75 cents.

"I am so proud that it was my son and that it was a colored man who gave his heart," the frail, 63-year-old woman said. "I am praying for Dr. Blaiberg."

Heart Self Starting — Barnard said that Haupt's heart did not need to be started by electric shock after it had been placed in Blaiberg's chest. The doctor said it began to pump without assistance as soon as the heart-lung machine used to keep Blaiberg alive during surgery was turned off.

"It was a beautiful operation," a senior member of Barnard's team said. "These boys are good. There were no complications. There was a distinct impression that this has become routine."

He said the fact that the donor heart began beating by itself was not unknown in open heart surgery.

"My own impression was that this is a very keen heart," he said. Doctors indicated there were no great barriers to interracial organ transplants in South Africa despite the nation's racial apartheid laws.

Critical Effort Condition —

Blaiberg, who was brought near death by a severe heart attack, told the hospital he did not care what the race of his donor was when asked if he had any objections. The government classifies the roes as white, colored, mixed and African. Haupt has one white parent.

The drama of Tuesday's operation, unfolded only hours after Barnard flew back from the United States. A few miles away, at the resort town of Fish Hook, Haupt collapsed while frolicking at the beach with his wife of three months.

Haupt was taken to Groote Schuur Hospital when doctors realized he had little chance of surviving and was potentially a donor for Blaiberg. Haupt lay in an operating room and doctors tried to save him up until the last moment.

Three Unrated Move Into Top Ten

By DICK JOYCE
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK 2 1/2 — Victories by Columbia and Oklahoma City in holiday tournaments play have vaulted these previously unrated major college basketball teams into the nation's top 10 in the United Press International Board of Coaches ratings.

UCLA, meanwhile, which is unbeaten in 12 straight games, eight this season—continues in the No. 1 spot, the place it was voted in the pre-season ratings and has maintained for five weeks.

Houston 12-4, Vanderbilt 9-1 and North Carolina 7-1 remained in the second, third and fourth spots, respectively, while the rest of the top 10 underwent a shakeup.

Kentucky Advances — Kentucky 7-1, jumped from seventh to fifth; Tennessee 6-1 and Utah 10-1 tied for sixth; Oklahoma City 8-0 winner of the All-College Tournament, leaped to eighth; Columbia 7-3, on the strength of its three upset triumphs en route to the Holiday Festival title, took over the No. 9 spot; and Davidson 5-2 advanced to 10th.

Not so fortunate in tournament action were Indiana No. 5 last week, previously eighth-ranked Boston College, St. John No. 9 last week and previously 10th-ranked Kansas. They all dropped out of the top 10.

St. John's which lost to Columbia in the Holiday Festival final, heads the second 10, followed by Duke, Wyoming, Indiana, Louisville, New Mexico, St. Bonaventure, Tulsa, Temple and Western Kentucky.

While UCLA keeps winning, John Wooden's Bruins failed to receive the unanimous balloting for the No. 1 spot for the first time in a month. Being named third on one ballot by the 65-member board of coaches gave UCLA a total of 348 votes. The other first place vote went to Oklahoma City.

Loss Points — Houston also dropped nine points from a week ago to 300 points.

UCLA easily defeated its LA Classic title last week. Houston captured the Rainbow Classic. Vanderbilt won the Shreveport Classic and North Carolina took the Far West Classic.

Kentucky played only one game last week and jumped two notches by defeating Notre Dame.

Tennessee and Utah both suffered their first losses of the season last week. The Volunteers losing in the LA Classic and Utah in the Far West Classic. Utah was rated 17th a week ago.

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn. 2 1/2 — East Tennessee State will take a 5-2 record into its opening Ohio Valley Conference game at Middle Tennessee State Saturday night after downing Hardin-Simmons 98-85, Tuesday night.

Quard, Harley Swift poured in 26 points and center Brian Sims added 19 as the Blue fought off a determined comeback attempt by Hardin-Simmons.

The visitors were down by 22 points in the first half, but managed to cut the margin to 14-12 at the half and then to six points early in the second half. An eight-point outburst by Sims led the game for East Tennessee.

Leroy Fisher added 17 and Richard Arnold 14 for the Blues who shot 51.2 per cent from the floor. Max Brownlee and Clarence McKenry led the Hardin-Simmons rally and finished the night with 24 and 19 points, respectively.

Houston Rendezvous With Big Lou And Company On 20th

By VITO STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer

Like a condemned man eating his last meal, Houston is continuing on its merry way towards its fateful rendezvous on Jan. 20. The Houston basketball team, now just two games and 27 shots away from its clash with UCLA in the Astrodome on Jan. 20, ran its record to 14-0 Tuesday night by crushing Michigan 9-65.

The Cougars, who also set a school record of 15 straight since they won their last game of last season with an 84-62 triumph over North Carolina for third place in the NCAA tourney, now has to face only Centenary on Jan. 2 and West Texas State on Jan. 13 before the UCLA meeting.

Houston has an unenviable task in trying to split the mighty Bruins who are aiming for San Francisco's 60-game winning streak. UCLA is bound to be up for this one. The clubs are ranked 1-2 in the nation and the largest crowd ever to watch a basketball game will view it in the Astrodome.

Meanwhile, the Houston club has no trouble with Michigan as the Cougars sank 38 per cent of their shots. Houston took a 40-28 half-time lead and led by at least 11 throughout the second half.

Elvin Hayes led the winners with 31 points. Rudy Tomjanovich had 20 for Michigan.

Only one other club in the top ten, third-ranked Vanderbilt, was in action Tuesday night and it had to overcome a nine-point half-time deficit to turn back Alabama 67-61. The Tide had a 35-27 half-time lead. Tomjanovich, whose 50th career point scored 48 for Alabama.

Detroit surprised 14th-ranked Indiana 99-93 as all five Titans hit in double figures. Bruce Rodman paced the winners with 36 points.

Beauregard, boosting its record to 9-1, edged Memphis State 75-73 on Will McClinton's 15-foot jumper with four seconds left in overtime.

In other games, Virginia Tech beat Ohio University 74-65, LaSalle topped Miami 82-64, Yale topped Georgia Tech 79-78, and North Carolina St. topped Atlanta Christian 111-52.

3rd Ranked Vandy Wins Over Tide

NASHVILLE 2 1/2 — The third-ranked Vanderbilt Commodores came from behind again Tuesday night, this time against an inspired Alabama Crimson Tide that had rolled to a nine point half-time lead, only to be beaten 67-61.

The Tide rolled to a 35-27 half-time lead behind the hot shooting of 6-7 junior center Rigdon Duppe, who ripped the net for all of his 14 game points before the intermission.

The Tide threw up an air tight zone defense, and this coupled with the Commodores poor outside shooting was the key factor in the Tide's first half lead.

An adjustment in Vandy's offensive patterns enabled Bo Wynn to work free closer to the basket and the Vanderbilt captain hit four straight jump shots in the second period.

But it remained for Vandy's do-everything junior guard Tommy Hagan to provide the spark. Hagan's three point play with 9:41 left in the game put the Commodores ahead for the first time at 47-46. With 5:44 remaining Hagan did it again, this time from corner, giving Vandy a 55-53 lead which they never gave up.

Hagan led all scorers with 28 points, while teammate Wynn added 18. It was the first time this year that the Commodores have had only two men in double figures.
